

Marvelous Maids Owner Inspires Fellow Business Owners With Her Dedication to Becoming a More Dynamic Business Leader

Kathy Gage, owner of Marvelous Maids located in O'Fallon, Missouri will be attending this year's National Spring Leadership Convention sponsored by the Association of Residential Cleaning Services International in Phoenix, Arizona.

The Association of Residential Cleaning Services International is the ONLY non-profit member organization dedicated to advancing the home cleaning industry. Members of ARCSI come together to network and share ideas to learn how to improve and grow their own company as well as, improve overall conditions within the entire industry. This year's conference features two keynote speakers, Brad Worthley and Steven Rowell, whom will not only discuss the latest strategies and ideas for growing the cleaning services business, balancing business and personal life, improving customer service, and more, but they also will have practical, "implement now" examples about how to do it.

"I am proud to be at the helm of such a thriving business, but I realize there is even more potential for it," explains Kathy Gage, President & Owner of Marvelous Maids. "I hope to further develop my leadership skills at this conference and come back with a game plan to help improve the overall business model and further our growth."

Marvelous Maids provides high quality residential cleaning services from a professionally trained staff.
